I think this was fixed in the upstream Redmine, I'll keep it open and set to 1.1.0 so I can make sure to check it when doing the code review (#30)

Alexandre: Well, the installation here seems to remember the setting (you mean the checkbox, right?) when checked or unchecked, so I wasn't able to reproduce here. Did you have the problem here or on a fresh install from the repo?

Yes, fresh install from last night repository.

Trying it on another new install does not reproduce the issue...

The code running here (chiliproject.org) is slightly different than what's in the git repository right now. After the code review (#30) we will be able to sync up.

Could you try it again on an install of the current code, and either close or confirm here?

Worked as planned with HEAD.
